Reviewing the operations of the year, the farming community of Kentucky ought to feel satisfied and complacent. Each crop in succession through the year, at different three during the growing season, seemed brought to the very verge of disaster by protracted droughts, when the opportune raius came and revived and rescued them, for which our acknowledgments are due to "Him who doeth all things well." With the partial failure of one or two crops of minor consideration, all other crops have been more than satisfactory.

FARMER'S PROPERTY

Is generally reached with the least difficulty. It is permanent property, and it is reached regularly every year. But how is it with the merchant and grocer? And how is it with these drummers? The object of taxation is to reach the property protected. The unusually fine fall crop of grass, and the mild, open fall, have contributed to this. What miserable recommy and shortsigntedness it will be for want of shel-ter, proper attention, and sufficient food to let them fall back from this condition in the next 120 days. The amount of money lost to Kentucky each year on account of badly whitered stock, if it could be arrived at, would be astonishing in amount. One Sunday morning Mrs. Living-stone Guyer walked into church very late, as was Mrs. Livingstone Guyer's custom, and at every onward step the drops and bugles on her mantle shook, and the hard ball trimming on herdress and the hard ball triniming on her dress rattled, and the beads around her throat clinked, and her hoop ear-rings struck the beads, adding to the clatter, and the daugling ornanients on her bonnet struck like tinkling cymbals.

There was a Missionary in the pulpit that day, a man browned with foreign suns, who had come to tell the fashiouable New York andience of the benighted heathen when the Church of Christeel heathen when the Church of Christ

The Missionary told his audience of the Burmese women who colored their faces to make them beautiful, and discolored their teeth by chewing beteinuts. He gave account also of the Africans who blackened their finger nails red.

The faces of the audience expressed in the description, and on their increductions faces was written questioning if such things could be.

Common Sense frowned at the increductive, and wished they might take a step only a little out of Broadway, where the New York poor huddled in cellars and crowded tenement houses, breathing an air of filth and contamination, and diving lives of lowest degradation and crime. It were easier to believe in foreign heathen with such a sight of

The Missionary informed his audience that heathen devotees tortured their bodies by unnatural compressions and painful attitudes, thinking to appease the anger of offended deity.

The faces of the audience indicated pity for such ignorance; but Common Sense glanced over to a man whose boots were instruments of torture to stricken and jumped overboard on the shore side and made a safe landing of their terrified carcasees. In forecasting the weather and other atmospheric phenomena for 1879, in the National Weather Almanae for this Mr. Wood Yantis is in possession of some interesting relies of his grandfath-er, Jacob Yantis, who died in 1800, aged year, Prof. Tice named the night of the 13th last, as the period for a meteoric seventy-six. One is a silver watch more than one hundred years old, whic 13th inst. as the period for a meteoric shower, and a few weeks ago he wrote an article that went the rounds of the newspaper press to the same effect. The prediction was based both on scientific causes and historical precedent—it being a historical fact, tracel to a period nearly 2,000 years back, that at given and regular periods, of which the 13th of November was one, these meteoric old fort at Harmisburg, and to it Mr. the biting cold, knocked together palarfully as the child walted for the nurse who held protracted discussion with a boon companion. Common Sense recognized the child as the representative of a large class given up by their mothers for a large class given up by their mothers and incompetency of servants, until disease and premature death was the result; and he wondered if heathen mothers in their sacrifices were more oulpable than American mothers in their neglect.

The Missionary told his audience of the divisions of caste. He informed them that the higher orders despised inferior grades; and if a person fell to an inferior rank his old companions in the former caste had a right to subject him to insult, and put upon him every indignity their scorn might conceive.
